

The Thief of Always

by Clive Barker

'I know a place where the days are always sunny,... and the nights are full of wonders.'

Things to think about.

How can you make your writing interesting?

Make sure your punctuation is accurate.

Try and think of original ways of describing places and events.

Check your spellings to make them as accurate as possible.

Harvey Swick is being tempted by Rictus with being taken to somewhere wonderful. Rictus refuses to tell him any more detail and leaves it up to Harvey's imagination what the place will be like.

Your task is to try and describe what the 'place' will be like. It will be different for each person. Describe your ideal 'fun place'

- What would it be?
- What would it look like?
- What would you be able to do there?
- Who else would be there?

Write a description of your place and what you would do there. Try and make it as descriptive as possible. You should aim to write at least one side in your books (but feel free to write more)!

If you do finish, then check it carefully and write it in neat on A4 paper for display on the wall.
